EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

One output of Kentucky higher education is the number and types of degrees conferred. This publication contains data for degrees conferred between July 1, 1986 and June 30, 1987 by Kentucky's state-supported and independent colleges and universities, business colleges, and theological seminaries.

The following table provides a basic description of the degrees awarded data. More comprehensive descriptions are contained within this report.

A variety of academic fields are represented. At the associate degree level at state-supported and independent institutions, Liberal Studies (transfer) was the most popular degree field followed by nursing and business. Business was the main career field at the business colleges. The majority of bachelor's degrees were conferred in business and management, and secondly in education. A high proportion of the master's and specialist's degrees were in education with business and management next highest at state-supported and independent institutions. Of the first-professional degrees awarded by state-supported universities, 51 percent were in law, 32 percent in medicine, 15 percent in dentistry, and 3 percent in pharmacy. Theological seminaries awarded all their first-professional degrees in theological studies. Doctoral degrees were most often awarded in education, life sciences (biology), and clinical health sciences at the state-supported universities and in religion at the theological seminaries.
